

New GRAMMAR MAGIC

4

Simply go to the new site of the book cover

CLASS IV

CH-7

NOUNS

EX A - UNDERLINE THE NOUNS IN THESE SENTENCES.

- Allahabad is known for the confluence of Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati.
- We went on a trip to Agra with our team.
- The fireflies are capable of producing light.
- Our village has a beautiful church.
- Yak wool is very expensive and rare.
- A monkey climbed the mango tree in our courtyard.
- Add some pepper to the salad.

- Ruma has curly hair.
- My mother got some eggs, cookies and flowers from the market.
- Our parents along with my aunt, nephews and friends visited us in the hospital.
- She wore an expensive ring on her anniversary.
- New Delhi has many historical places to visit.

- The television and oven in our house belongs to my grandfather.
- Mahatma Gandhi is the greatest believer of peace the world has seen after Buddha and Christ.
- The Republic Day parade at Raj path is viewed by people all over the world.

EX B - UNDERLINE THE NOUNS IN THIS PARAGRAPH

- ‘How do you like your Uncle Ken?’ asked Granny on day. ‘I wish he was someone else’s uncle,’ I said. ‘He is not so bad, really. Just eccentric.’ ‘What is eccentric?’ ‘Oh, just a little crazy.’
- ‘At least Crazy runs round the house,’ I said. ‘I have never seen Uncle Ken running.’ But I did one day. Mohan and I were playing marbles in the shade of a mango tree when we were taken aback by the sight of Uncle Ken charging across the compound, pursued by a swarm of bees. He had lit fire under a silk – cotton tree and the smoke had disturbed the wild bees in their hive, directly above him.

• Uncle Ken fled indoors and leapt into a tub of cold water. He had received a few stings and decided to remain in bed for three days. The Ayah took his meals to him on a tray. 'I did not know Uncle Ken could run so fast,' I said to Granny, later in the day. 'It is nature's way of compensating,' said Granny

• 'What is compensating?'

• 'It means making up for things. Now at least Uncle Ken knows that he can run. Is that not wonderful?'

EX C - FILL IN THESE BLANKS WITH APPROPRIATE NOUNS.

- The largest land mammal is called an elephant.
- My mum used egg, milk and flour to bake a cake.
- An Owl is a nocturnal bird.
- Mango is a yellow coloured fruit.
- We need paint to change the colour of this wall.

- A large water body of saline water is called an ocean.
- A room with a collection of books is called a library.
- A precious yellow coloured metal used for making jewellery is called gold.
- Part of body that we use to speak is tongue.
- The stars shine brightly at night.